

COLDFOOT & NDA

November 2019

The purpose of the National Demolition Association is to:

- Foster goodwill and exchange ideas with the public, governmental agencies, and those engaged in the demolition process;
- Encourage ethical conduct among its members;
- Promote the welfare of its members and cooperation between them for the betterment of the demolition process; and,
- Sponsor educational programs so as to increase public understanding of all phases of the demolition process.

Demolition is one of those fields that the general population seems to grossly epitomize into “blowing things up.” While that certainly is an aspect of demolition, that is not the full picture. The National Demolition Association explains it as:

“While implosions represent the most visible face of demolition, they are only a relatively small portion of the total work of the industry. From structural demolition and dismantlement to industrial recovery and C&D recycling, from specialized rigging and landfilling to insurance services and equipment manufacturing, from general contracting and architectural salvage to facilities decontamination, asbestos abatement and nuclear clean-up, the demolition process involves an unimaginable breadth of products and services to meet the needs of our clients and the community.”

We respond to disasters as emergency support personnel, clean-up Brownfields and Superfund sites, provide the scrap industry with their feedstock, process a huge quantity of our wastestream for reuse and recycle our nation's most valuable resource, its land.”

Coldfoot Environmental Services, Inc. is a proud member of the NDA because of their focus on “meeting the needs of the community by recycling the nation's most valuable resource - land.” As a specialty contractor in asbestos and lead abatement, Coldfoot is a demolition company. Coldfoot does not however “just blow stuff up,” but they help recycle the land by removing hazardous materials and replacing them with eco-friendly alternatives. The safety and health of the community and the environment is Coldfoot’s main concern, and by removing these hazardous, harmful materials, they are ensuring the safety of their community - and yours - for generations to come.
